

L.E. Froom to
C. B. Clark

Nov. 30, 1967.

[excerpt]

"But, in some of these early hymnals the Doxology, with praise to Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, was definitely included, showing that while some were Arian in view, and denied the Trinity and eternal preexistence of Christ, that there were those among us -- and I believe, the majority -- who held to the Trinitarian view, because they came out of Trinitarian churches."
